Welcome to the Twenty-Seventh Annual Meeting of the American Association of Endodontists. Our Program Committee has prepared an outstanding program designed to keep you well informed and current in all phases of Endodontics.

Organizing a meeting such as this one is a tremendous undertaking and requires the composite talents and skills of many men. Our Local Arrangements Committee has done everything in its power to make this meeting a most informative, productive and enjoyable time for each of us.

I wish to thank all of those who have labored in planning and producing this program. I also wish to thank the membership of the American Association of Endodontists who have all contributed to making this another great one for Endodontics.

Warren J. Hedman, President
HARRY B. JOHNSTON, D.D.S.
March 3, 1880 — July 15, 1953

In Whose Honor and Memory
This
Twenty-Seventh Annual Meeting
Of
The American Association of Endodontists
Is
Respectfully Dedicated
DR. HARRY B. JOHNSTON

It is most appropriate that this meeting be dedicated to Dr. Harry B. Johnston, one of the great men in endodontics who gave so much of himself, his talents, and creative skills to preserve and maintain man’s natural dentition. He was, in his day, the only limited practitioner of endodontics in the entire world. The first biologic research to prove that endodontics was a scientifically accepted therapy demonstrated that his method of treatment was superior to any being practiced throughout the world.

Dr. Johnston was born in Blackburg, Virginia on March 3, 1880. At the age of twelve he moved with his family to Atlanta, Georgia. During his early working years Dr. Johnston was in the newspaper field being associated with the Birmingham News, The Atlanta Georgian and the Montgomery Alabama Advertiser.

At the age of thirty-three and already a family man married to Katherine Hurt Akers of Atlanta, he matriculated as a freshman at the Atlanta Dental College. Dr. Johnston was an outstanding student leading his class while working for his tuition at the college. He was president and valedictorian of his class of 1916 and earned the award of the Gold Key of Excellency. From the day he entered college, Mrs. Johnston tells us, he was consumed with the desire to find a better way of treating pulpless teeth.

Upon graduation, Dr. Johnston became associated with Dr. Thomas P. Hinman, under his encouragement Dr. Johnston directed his talent and energy toward research aimed at more successful treatment of root canal therapy. He discovered that the use of iodine in conjunction with ionization proved most successful in the control of infection in root canals. This technic won for him world wide recognition.

In 1925 he was awarded the Hinman Research Medal by the Georgia Dental Society. He served as editor of the Georgia Dental Society and was elected its president in 1937 and he was an honorary member of the Academy of International Dentists.

Mrs. Johnston wrote in her diary, “In February 1943 a happy day dawned for Harry. At the meeting of the Chicago Dental Society a group met to organize an association for the study of root canal therapy. Committees were appointed to elect officers and draw up a constitution and to decide on a name. Three names were suggested, ‘Root Surgeons,’ ‘Rootodontists’ and ‘Endodontists.’ The last was Harry’s suggestion which was accepted. Since 1929 he had been using ‘Endodontia Exclusively’ on his office stationery. He refused to accept the presidency but consented to serve as vice-president.”

Dr. Johnston continued his activities in the area of endodontics as a lecturer and educator. He was also very active in the American Association of Endodontics until his death on July 15, 1953. He was survived by his widow, a son and three daughters.

SCIENTIFIC SESSION
9:00 - 12:00
Session Chairman:
Dr. I. B. Bender, Philadelphia, Pa.
9:00 - 10:00
Systemic Considerations in Endodontics

Essayist: Malcolm A. Lynch, A.B., D.D.S., M.D.

Synopsis: Two areas will be covered: Systemic diseases most likely to alter the routine of endodontic therapy and systemic antibiotic therapy by the endodontist.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Lynch is Assistant Professor of Oral Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Dental Medicine and Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. He also serves as an attending physician at the Student Health Service in the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. After receiving his bachelor’s degree at the University of Chattanooga and his D.D.S. at the University of Tennessee, he served for three years as a general dentist in the U.S. Navy. Dr. Lynch then received his M.D. from Washington University at St. Louis and interned in Internal Medicine at Grady Memorial Hospital of Emory University in Atlanta. He was the recipient of a fellowship in Oral Medicine which was served at the Philadelphia General Hospital. He is the author of several textbook chapters and research papers dealing primarily with the inter-relationship of oral and systemic disease.
FRIDAY, APRIL 10
10:00 - 10:45
Some Physiological Aspects of the Periapical Lesion

Synopsis: A study of pressures exerted by periapical lesions (1) immediately after a vital pulp extirpation, (2) after lesions have formed (3 to 6 weeks later) and (3) when the animals possess excess body fluid. The findings will be related to clinical problems.

Biographical Sketch:
Dr. Mohorn received an A.B. in Chemistry from the University of North Carolina in 1958; a D.D.S. from the University of North Carolina in 1964, and a M.S. in Endodontics from the University of Michigan in 1968. He is presently Assistant Professor, Dept. of Endodontics at the University of Michigan where his research interests are: pressures exerted during inflammation and Homo-transplantation.

Dr. Mohorn is a Diplomate of the American Board of Endodontics.

10:45 - 12:00
Bone Physiology

Essayist: Lent C. Johnson, B.S., M.D.

Synopsis: Discuss the basic principles of bone remodeling and the interplay between the factors that modify the structure of bone in adaptation to functional needs.

Biographical Sketch:
Dr. Johnson received a B.S. at the University of Chicago 1931; M.D. University of Chicago 1936; followed by surgical internship at the University of Chicago (under Dallas Phemister), and two years of internal medicine on the Harvard Service at Boston City Hospital (under Soma Weiss); pathology internship, Worcester City Hospital; subsequently resident in pathology at various Harvard Medical School hospitals (under Shields Warren, Arthur Hertig, Sidney Farber); entered military service in 1942 (Army) for four and one-half years during World War II. Since 1946 he has been with the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in charge of Orthopedic (Musculoskeletal) Pathology.
Luncheon With Learning

FRIDAY, APRIL 10th
12:15 - 2:00
Plantation and Ball Room C & S

Chairman: Dr. Alvin A. Krakow, Brookline, Mass.

1. Irving I. Abramson
   The Value of Hemisection in Endodontic Treatment.
2. I. B. Bender
   Fallability of Roentgenograms.
3. E. James Best

Endodontic Stabilizers and Blade Implants

Essayist: Leonard I. Linkow, B.S., D.D.S.
Synopsis: The value of endodontic stabilizers placed into the bone beyond the apices of loosened fractured or reimplanted teeth and intraosseous blade type implants as abutments will be discussed.

Biographical Sketch:
Dr. Linkow received his B.S. from Long Island University in 1948 and his D.D.S. from New York University in 1952. He is a Fellow of the Academy of General Dentistry, a member of the American Academy of Implant Dentistry and Past President and Founder of the Institute for Endosseous Implants.
Dr. Linkow has given numerous post graduate courses on endodontic stabilizers and implants and has written numerous articles on the theories and techniques of oral implantology.

9:45 - 10:45
Endodontic Failures

Essayist: Dudley H. Glick, B.S., D.D.S.
Synopsis: This presentation will include the cause, determination and correction of certain recurrent endodontic failures.

Biographical Sketch:
Dr. Glick was graduated in 1953 from the University of Southern California, School of Dentistry. He served as Assistant Chairman,
SATURDAY, APRIL 11th

Dept. of Endodontics, University of Southern California 1954-1965. He was Chief Endodontic Consultant to the Veterans Administration 1960-67 and at present is serving as Clinical Professor, University of Southern California, School of Dentistry and Post Graduate Departments. Dr. Glick was President of the California Academy of Endodontists in 1960, President of Los Angeles Alpha Omega Dental Fraternity 1960-61, Program Chairman of the American Association of Endodontists 1964. He served as Treasurer of American Association of Endodontists for three years and is presently Vice-President.

Dr. Glick is a Fellow of the American College of Dentists and a Diplomate of the American Board of Endodontics. He has given numerous Post Graduate courses across the United States, in South America, Mexico, Hawaii and France. He has appeared on countless programs on endodontics or head pain and written various articles on related subjects.

10:45 - 12:00

Pulp Dentin Structure and Reactions

Essayist: Ivar A. Mjor, B.D.S., M.S.D., M.S., Dr. odont.

Synopsis: Detailed studies of both the pulp and the dentine are considered necessary for the best possible understanding of the biologic aspects of many clinical procedures.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Mjor was graduated with a B.D.S. degree with commendation from Dundee Dental School, University of St. Andrews, Scotland in 1957. He received his M.S.D. degree (Pedodontics) in 1960 and an M.S. degree (Anatomy) in 1961 from the University of Alabama. In 1967 he received his doctorate of odontology at the University of Oslo. He served as a lieutenant in the Dental Corps of the Royal Norwegian Army and a Research Fellow in the Norwegian Institute of Dental Research. In 1961 he was appointed to the Dental Faculty in the Department for General Research at the University of Oslo. Dr. Mjor is presently Acting Chairman of the Dental Faculty in the Department of Anatomy at the University of Oslo.

His publications consist of a Doctorate and two Master’s theses. He is author or co-author of approximately thirty-five publications in scientific journals.

Panal on Apexification and Pedo-Endodontics

Moderator: J. Henry Kaiser, Ph.C., B.S., D.D.S.

Synopsis: The historical background on apexification will be covered presenting illustrations of early cases and the various biological technics used in the treatment of these cases.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Kaiser received his Ph.C. (Pharmaceutical Chemist) from Western Reserve University in 1925; his B.S. (Pharmacy) in 1926 and his D.D.S. in 1934 from Ohio State University. From 1944 until 1962 at Ohio State University he served as Associate Professor, Chairman of both the Dept. of Pharmacology and the Dept. of Endodontics. At present Dr. Kaiser is Professor Emeritus of Ohio State University.

Dr. Kaiser has been outstanding in the field of research. Among other things, he originated the cobalt-chromium alloy metal implants to replace fractured roots of anterior teeth and a biological method of closing wide apices of pulpless teeth in young patients.

His practice has been limited to Endodontics since 1945 and he has conducted numerous postgraduate courses in Endodontics in the U.S. and Canada. He is both a past Editor and a Past President of the American Association of Endodontics.

Dr. Kaiser is a member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, a Fellow of the American College of Dentists, a Fellow of the Academy Internationale Dentistry and a Diplomate of the American Board of Endodontics.

Panelist: Joe H. Camp, A.B., D.D.S., M.S.D.

Synopsis: Indication and counterindication for indirect pulp therapy, pulp capping, pulpotomy, and pulpectomy on the primary teeth will be presented. Current techniques will be illustrated by a lecture-slide demonstration.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Camp received the D.D.S. degree from the University of North Carolina in 1964 and the M.S.D. degree in Pedodontics from Indiana
University in 1968. Dr. Camp was an instructor in the Department of Endodontics at U.N.C. prior to entering graduate school. He was on the faculty at the University of Louisville and is currently assistant professor of Pedodontics at the University of North Carolina. Dr. Camp belongs to several professional societies and is a member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon.

Panelist: Gerald M. Cathey

Synopsis: The current techniques and filling materials utilized to induce continued apical root development in pulpless teeth with incompletely formed apices (apexification) will be presented by slide-lecture demonstration.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Cathey received his B.S. from Davidson College in 1957, his DDS from The University of North Carolina in 1961 and M.S.D. and certificate in Endodontics from The University of Washington in 1966. He is Associate Professor, Department of Endodontics, University of North Carolina. He is also a member of several professional and scientific organizations, member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon and a Diplomat of The American Board of Endodontics.

Panelist: Henry J. Van Hassel, D.D.S., M.S.D., Ph.D.

Synopsis: Results of a four-year clinical follow-up study of root apexification cases treated in Seattle and preliminary findings from our research on the technique in rhesus monkeys will be discussed.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Van Hassel received his B.A. degree at Maryville College in 1954, his D.D.S. at the University of Maryland in 1963. He was an Intern at the USPHS Hospital, Seattle in 1964 and Staff dentist, USPHS Hospital in Boston 1965. Dr. Van Hassel received his M.S.D. in Endodontics in 1967 and his Ph.D. in Physiology and Biophysics in 1969 from the University of Washington.

He presently holds the positions of Assistant Professor Departments of Physiology and Biophysics and of Endodontics and Research Affiliate, Regional Primate Research Center of University of Washington; Associate Chief of Dental Service for Research, USPHS Hospital in Seattle.

Endodontic Implants

Essayist: Alfred L. Frank, D.D.S.

Synopsis: The Endodontic Implant will be discussed and demonstrated on a lower anterior tooth integrating the procedure with sound Endodontic principles. Consideration of its indications and contra-indications to avoid its promiscuous use will be presented.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Frank received his D.D.S. from the University of Southern California and is presently Clinical Professor of Endodontics in the School of Dentistry at University of Southern California. He is a Past President of Southern California Academy of Endodontics, and Past President of Los Angeles Chapter of Alpha Omega. Dr. Frank is a Diplomate of the American Board of Endodontics, a member of the Board of Examiners of the American Board of Endodontics, a Fellow of the International College of Dentists and a Fellow of the American College of Dentists.

Homogenous Dental Transplant

Essayist: Milton Siskin, D.D.S.

Synopsis: This presentation is designed to demonstrate a method for selecting a tooth from a human tooth bank and then planting this tooth into a recipient site. The entire procedure will be performed at one sitting and will include each step from case selection to cementation of the retaining splint.

Biographical Sketch:

Dr. Milton Siskin of Memphis, Tennessee received his B.A. and D.D.S. degrees from the University of Tennessee. He is at present Professor and Head of the Department of Oral Medicine in the University of Tennessee, College of Dentistry. Dr. Siskin is a Fellow of the American College of Dentists, the International College of Dentists, the American Academy of Oral Pathology, the American Association of Endodontists, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is a member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon. He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Oral Medicine and a Diplomate and Member of the American Board of Endodontics.

Dr. Siskin was awarded a Thomas P. Hinman Medalion in 1966. He serves as Endodontic Consultant to the Tennessee State Board of Dental Examiners, the Central Office of the Veterans Administration, and the Council on Drugs of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Siskin is a member of eighteen professional dental societies. He has published numerous scientific papers and has contributed to many textbooks. He is on the editorial staff for five professional publications, including the assistant editorship for the Journal of Dental Medicine.
